University Offers Studies in USSR History, Speech During Summer

Vladimir Kolesnikoff Is Appointed to Faculty as Lecturer of Russian

IS EXPERIENCED TEACHER

Advanced Courses in Literature and History to Be Offered Next Fall

Reflecting reestablished relations between the United States and Russia, the curriculum of G. W. is to be augmented by the addition of courses in Russian language and literature and in recent Russian history, according to an announcement made by President Marvin.

The University will open courses in the Russian language during its coming summer sessions under Vladimir Stephanovich Kolesnikoff, who has been appointed to the faculty as lecturer in Russian.

Mr. Kolesnikoff studied as an undergraduate at St. Petersburg University under the old regime in Russia. He pursued graduate work at Columbia University, receiving the degree of master of science. Between 1929 and 1932 he served as research assistant at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and since 1932 has been on the staff of the Brookings Institution of Washington.

Mr. Kolesnikoff is an economist and statistician and has had particular success as an interpreter and teacher. He has instructed foreign service officers of the Department of State in Russian language and literature.

Courses in second year Russian and advanced language and reading in Russian literature will be given in the fall. Courses in recent Russian history will be scheduled by the University next fall as part of the work of the foreign service branch of the School of Government.

Lambie House Gets Lounge Furnishings

First-floor Rooms Renovated;
Library Planned for Third Floor

With the installation this week of new furniture, the Lambie House re-furnishing project is nearing completion.

Present plans call for the conversion of the first floor of the building into a lounge for University men and women. One of the third floor rooms will be used for a library. Second floor rooms will be devoted to the office of Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance.

Preparatory to moving in the furniture, first-floor rooms have been completely renovated. Walls have been washed, floors varnished, and the woodwork repainted. Moreover, neutral-toned rugs and rust-and-green hangings of heavy weave have already been selected.

At the freshman women's assembly on January 4, Mrs. Barrows explained the project, and asked the women for suggested changes in Lambie House. One suggestion was the conversion of a third-floor room into a woman's dressing room, with mending facilities. The question of permitting smoking in the lounge caused much discussion.

The Lambie House project is sponsored and largely financed by the Columbian Women. It is an outgrowth of plans for a Student Union building which were formulated early in 1931, but which failed to materialize because of a lack of sufficient student interest. The work is in direct charge of a committee of the Columbian Women, headed by Mrs. Daniel Houston Buchanan. Other committee members are Miss Harriet Garrels, Mrs. Richard Hynson, Mrs. Willard Hayes Yeager, Mrs. A. Curtis Wilgus, Mrs. Edwin Yocum, and Miss Cecile Harrington. The Colonial Campus Club has also given assistance, and is carrying on a campaign to procure books for the third-floor library.

Regular rehearsals for the University Symphony will be resumed Wednesday night in Lambie House. Those interested in the vacant violin positions may report to rehearsal beginning at 8:15 Wednesday night.

Students Elect 1934 Class Officers In First General Elections Friday

Candidates Run Unopposed for Ten Out of Twenty-two Class Offices

Long candidates for 10 of the 22 class offices will run unopposed in the general class elections next Friday, it is revealed by the list of eligibles released Sunday night by the Student Council. In the School of Education, and the Division of Fine Arts, no candidates are running for Senior Council memberships.

Polls will open at 10 a. m. on Friday in Corcoran Hall, Stockton Hall, the Medical School, the Library, and the Fine Arts Building. Voting hours will run not only from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., but also from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m., in order to give night students an opportunity to vote.

To avoid any casting of imprecise votes, the Student Council announced that all voting lists will be sent to the Registrar's office for checking. Ineligible names will not be counted. It was further declared that there will be no freshman assembly for the purpose of casting votes, as was done in the so-called "null-and-void" election. Since past experience has shown that many votes are cast by proxy, the Council state that proxy votes are decidedly unlawful, and that its representatives at the polls will not permit the practice to continue.

The list of endorsing candidates is given in the box above. The Student Council's definitions of eligible voters

Cue and Curtain To Hold Try-outs For Second Play January 10, 11

Competition Open to All University Students, Miss
Brown Announces

NAME OF PLAY WITHHELD

New Comedy, Not Yet Released by Publisher, to Be Announced Next Week

Try-outs for the second Cue and Curtain play of the season will be held Wednesday and Thursday, January 10 and 11, in W-33 at 8 p. m. Miss Constance Connor Brown, director, emphasizes the fact that these try-outs are open to the entire student body, and expresses a desire to see many new faces present.

"Announcement of the name of the play, which is to be presented early in March, must be withheld until next week," stated Floyd Sparks, business manager of Cue and Curtain, "but a worthy successor to 'Louder, Please' is guaranteed."

Miss Brown went to New York during the Christmas vacation, and visited the major publishing houses in order to find a desirable play. While there, she found on one publisher's January list an outstanding Broadway comedy hit of last season. She secured permission from the publisher to present the play, but since it has not yet been released, she is unable to announce the title. The play will be released this week, however, Sparks stated, and announcement of the title will be made in next week's Hatchet.

"We hope that this 'mystery' surrounding the play will not discourage students from coming to the try-outs," Sparks continued.

Meanwhile, the sale of season tickets is being continued. These tickets provide three admissions for $1.50, which may be divided between the remaining two admissions.

For those not connected with the school, a special price of $2 is announced for a single seat at the remaining two plays, and a price of $3.50 for two seats.

Sparks wishes to remind holders of season tickets that they must trade these tickets in soon after the sale of tickets begins if they wish to secure choice seats, as tickets are not held on reserve for them. "We expect," he said, "another sell-out for this play, and while we want all holders of season tickets to have good seats, we cannot hold seats back from those desiring to buy single tickets. My advice is: 'Come early and avoid the rush.'"

Speakers' Congress Elects New Officers

The Speakers' Congress announces the election of the following officers at its meeting of December 13: Donald Wilkins, speaker; Bruce Quigley, speaker, pro tem.; Lee McNeil, chief clerk; Elizabeth Sherier, treasurer; and James Edwards, sergeant-at-arms.

A debate, followed by an open forum, was held on the question: "Resolved, That Germany should be allowed to rearm." Arthur Murphy, variety debater, upheld the affirmative, and James Edwards upheld the negative.

The next meeting of the Congress will be held Wednesday, January 10, at 1:30 p. m.

Hatchet Food Baskets Spread Cheer To Fifty-two Needy Washington Families

Campaign Group Headed by Ludwig Caminita Performs
Excellent Service

Fifty-two needy Washington families received Christmas food baskets as a result of the drive sponsored by The Hatchet and Student Council. Scattered throughout the District of Columbia, the majority of the families, whose names were supplied by local social agencies, had one or more serious cases of tuberculosis in each group.

In direct charge of the work was Ludwig Caminita, Hatchet reporter, through whose efforts The Hatchet and Student Council were induced to sponsor the charity movement.

Despite the short time allotted to the collection of food, practically every organization contacted responded immediately to the plea for aid. The Hatchet office, usually an orderly room, was thrown topsy-turvy with huge mounds

By Dick Creyke

Having nothing in particular to do after school on one of those ducky days we had last week, I decided to investigate the laboratory of our star photographer, Shaw Hall Matthews. I found said laboratory in the basement of the Fine Arts Building, although I doubt if I could find it again.

Finding the laboratory was one thing and finding Matthews was another. I finally located him playing in a large tin pan with some foul-smelling liquid. This, he informed me after I had explained my mission, was the developing fluid. One by one I then found out about all the other cameras and gadgets which he has and which represent a several-hundred-dollar investment.

Matthews, who came here from Georgia some three years ago to study art and architecture, set up his laboratory on November 8, 1932. His work there includes photographic work for the university, professional photography, and developing work for a local photographic supply store.

Matthews has won many prizes in photographic contests, and being an artist as well as a photographer, he has succeeded in turning out exceptionally fine pictures.

He uses a camera which takes movie film. This enables him to take 42 pictures on one film instead of the usual eight. Because of the sensitiveness of this film and the speed of his camera, these pictures can be greatly enlarged without becoming indistinct.

Hatchet readers may look for even more remarkable pictures in the near future, for Matthews has ordered a finer camera, costing over $200, which will soon be put into service.

Second Semester Registration Begins

Initial Payment Due February
1; Mail Application
Today

Students enrolled in the University who expect to continue work here next semester have been urged to confer with their deans and advisors, and to plan their schedules during the pre-registration period which lasts through Friday, January 19. Inconveniences of the more crowded regular period may be avoided in this way, the Registrar's office declared.

Schedules made during the pre-registration period may be changed in case of failure in pre-requisite courses, according to an announcement from the registrar's office.

Transfer students entering the University will register on January 31 and February 1.

Tuition Due February 1
Initial payment of tuition must be made on or before February 1. If payment is not made by this date, the usual late registration fee will be charged.

The form on page 4 should be filled out and mailed or brought to the registrar's office, Building G. The necessary forms for registration and full instructions will be issued upon the receipt of the form.

Twelve Groups Get Cherry Tree Choice

Fame and Beauty Pages Open to Fraternal and Activity
Organizations

With the close of 1933, the final moments to enter the Cherry Tree Hall of Fame and Beauty contests breathed their last. When the smoke cleared away, the Board of Editors announced the following organizations eligible to present a candidate for each of these contests: Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, Pi Beta Phi, Sigma Kappa, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Phi Sigma Sigma.

Eligible for the Hall of Fame group are Acacia and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. It was pointed out by Editor Virginia Hawkins that this did not exclude others from entering the Hall of Fame contest, inasmuch as other candidates will be presented by the faculty heads of the various extra-curricular activities, such as athletes, drama, glee clubs, debating.

Apparently the urge to save sent many individuals to Casson Studios who would otherwise not have presented themselves until the last minute to have their Cherry Tree photograph taken. This was concluded from the fact that 25 per cent more pictures have been taken this year than were taken last year at this time. Photographic Editor Ralph Given, announcing the rates of photographs, added that the present $2.50 rate would be held in effect for a short time only, and warned the members of the organizations and student body to have theirs taken before the new rate is instituted.

In connection with organization pictures, the Annual editors declared that many organizations have procured space in the yearbook when formerly they were content to remain unknown. They added that organizations still desiring to sign up for group pictures may call the Publications Office for further information.

Are We Interested?
In commenting editorially upon the convention of the National Student Federation in Washington during the Christmas holidays the Washington Herald recently asked the question, "Are the college students of the United States finally beginning to take an active and real interest in public affairs?"
The writer answered yes. "Indeed, the economic depression under which the country has been laboring during the last few years has changed considerably the entire outlook of college undergraduates. No longer have they been able to roll back through four years of collegiate light-heartedness, secure in the knowledge that at the end of the trail lay an A. B. and any one of half a dozen positions with lucrative salaries attached."

This editorial calls attention to two points of relation between our University and college students' interest in public affairs.
Dean Henry Gratton Doyle, a prominent journalist himself and authority on the current history of South America, speaking at a meeting of high school editors recently, agreed with the Herald in that he said that students of the United States showed a great lack of interest in public affairs as compared with those of South America. He said that older people used to frown upon expression of opinion by youth, but in recent times and for the same reasons as given by the editorial they have come to believe that even youth could not run the world any worse. But then again it is worth noting that at George Washington students are less inclined to be deceived by "rollicking through four years of collegiate light-heartedness" when all about them their fellow students are struggling to earn their livelihood and a little extra for education, where many students have had an A. B. for ten or twenty years, have held positions for almost as long, have been married and have children and above all have paid taxes.

Respecting Sunday
During the Christmas holidays a delicate question arose of interpretation of University rules regarding dancing on Sunday by organizations incorporated by permission of the University.
We see no question, as some do, of whether or not such regulation is within the power of the University. The power to create is the power to regulate, and organizations to be a part of the University must be created by the official approval of the board of trustees.
The rule in regard to dancing on Sunday is one which the Student Life Committee enforces, probably at the insistence of the board, that the University may officially respect the Sabbath day.
This rule is only in keeping with common practice everywhere; there are no objections and everyone observes it. Dances on Saturday night are closed at midnight in the University buildings, in fraternity houses and in clubs and hotels where University organizations hold functions. This is as it should be and shows a sacrifice on the part of the dancers in stopping their merriment.
But when it comes to deciding upon the question of dances being held on New Year's Eve, we believe that more liberality should have been shown. It was sufficient respect of the Sabbath day to delay the beginning of the dancing until midnight when January 1 began. Then, even the churches began celebration of the New Year.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:
THE First Battalion, U. S. Naval Reserve, has been carrying on a drive to increase its enlisted strength. This reserve organization, which is the sea-going equivalent of the Army's National Guard, has one Washington battalion, composed of three divisions, which drill weekly at the Navy Yard.

Inasmuch as college men make particularly desirable recruits, we especially want to enlist as many G. W. students as possible. No doubt the attractive program of the Naval Reserve will interest many men, for in addition to the instructive weekly drill program under the supervision of experienced officers, there are yearly cruises on warships to foreign or American ports. During the summer, there are also week-end cruises down the Chesapeake with many opportunities for sailing, swimming and fishing. Gun drill, seamanship, and signalling will attract some, and the more mechanical work of the engine-room divisions will interest others. In time of war, the battalion would be sent to sea as the crew of a destroyer.

I understand that there is no ROTC or military organization of any character at the University. Therefore, the Naval Reserve offers an opportunity for such training to many who would otherwise have no chance to become members of the nation's reserve forces. Therefore, I urge all men who may be interested to come down to the Naval Reserve Armory at Eleventh and M streets southeast on Monday or Wednesday evenings, when I will be glad to talk to them.
Very truly yours,
JAMES E. SULLIVAN,
Lieutenant, USNR.

To the Editor:
IT IS essential for both the day and night sections of the freshman class to know and understand the principles for which their president stands. Therefore, Ralph Gray, the "Champion of Human Rights," and fusion candidate for president, presents the following slate for approval.
1. Justice to both day and night student.
2. Athletic and social activities for all freshmen at a time suitable to all.
3. Equality in all functions and transactions of the freshman class.
4. More and better school spirit.
Ralph Gray is our best representative for president of the freshman class, since he represents all the members of the non-fraternity and non-sorority groups, and most of the pledges of the fraternities and sororities.
Freshmen, this is our chance to prove to George Washington University that we stand for Justice, Representation, and Equality.
WALTER BIRD,
Freshman.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Courses in feminine charm! The University of Kentucky will be lectured on "Perfumes" at a regular meeting of the Home Economics Club.
Brooklyn Polytechnic has a new institution. The "Gib Lab" to wit! Here one may become embroiled in a lively bull-session on anything from Technocracy to a clinical discussion of the fine art of osculation.

OUT IN THE WORLD

THERE is more than one way of "moving in" on a campus. Witness the following:
A freshman named William Thompson at the N. Y. State School of Agriculture at Alfred, N. Y., lacked funds. Yet he was determined to go to school this winter.
He bought an auto trailer, got it towed to Alfred, and there he talked the authorities into letting him park it behind one of the school buildings. He has fitted the box-like body of said trailer into a snug apartment—vest-pocket size—with a folding bunk, a sink, and even a gas heater.
Now just because young Thompson is an example of good old American resourcefulness doesn't mean he's insured against sophomore pranks. Perhaps that was one reason he removed the wheels from his "home."

JUST BETWEEN US--

By LUDWIG CAMINITA
THE student body and faculty members did themselves proud when they responded so quickly and so bountifully to the appeal for aid in the Christmas Food drive sponsored by The Hatchet and Student Council. I happened to be around a little during those three days the food came into the office here, and I wouldn't trade those moments spent here for any amount of money. I learned as much about human nature then as I thought I could have learned only through a year of textbook study.
One received help from the most "unexpected sources." Professors whom I had imagined were interested in nothing except their physics, chemistry, or Greek, dropped everything to scout around among their friends when called upon to help. And in every instance they sent more than their quota. Slushing through the rain with both arms and head hidden by packages of food came another prof. And he climbed three flights of stairs to deposit the contribution. Then he fled, embarrassed by the word of thanks of a Hatchet representative.
Having spent most of my life trying to "figure out" profs was all in vain. Apparently the appeal for aid for hungry mouths moves them all, the stern, the sentimental, the practical, and the dreamers. I have to start classifying them all over again.
As for the students—they broke all records. When one chap walked into the office one night, some one might have remarked, "That contrary night student who never speaks to anyone is coming up. Probably to tell us what a rotten plan it all is." Well, when he came out of the misty night, he dropped some 15 cans of food upon the table and walked off with a wave of his hand as he was asked from whom the donation came.
The reaction of the campus groups was as interesting and instructive as was the stark poverty of those needy families whose homes are within the very shadow of the Capitol of the Nation.
For me, this food drive will always stand as one of the most thrilling experiences in my life. Certainly I shall always point to it as a refutation to those ever-recurring statements that college students of today are hard and cynical.
LAST week came the realization that those who criticized The Hatchet for giving ample space to election stories were probably correct. When the Student Council met last week (after waiting almost an hour for a quorum to appear), it was announced that seven colleges had candidates for the Senior Council.
And in six of these colleges every candidate is running unopposed! Greater lack of interest in the Senior Council could only be shown by having no candidates at all.
When one considers that there are ten colleges eligible to receive representation on the Council, and only seven men from as many schools have the energy to sign themselves into the position, it becomes obvious that either there is no interest in campus politics or the Senior Council holds no interest for those who are interested.
However one looks at it, it undoubtedly shows that the Senior Council might just as well be abolished. The only good it can do, it seems to me, is to give these gentlemen a full page in the Cherry Tree. So far as I am concerned, I would prefer to see a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Doe honeymooning at Niagara Falls.

Who Will Make An Engineer?
"Vocational Guidance in Engineering Lines," Reviewed by Dean John R. Lapham

Editor's note: Written by Dean John R. Lapham, of the School of Engineering, this review and recommendation of the book, "Vocational Guidance in Engineering Lines," The Hatchet believes, should be of interest to students and prospective students of engineering. It is published by the Mack Printing Co., Easton, Pa., at $2.50, and edited by a committee of three, appointed by the American Association of Engineers.
Dean Lapham says, "The book should be available in school as well as public libraries, and many individuals will wish to have personal copies to consult from time to time, for it is too comprehensive for one reading."
The book brings out some very important truths which should be of value to anyone who is considering engineering as a possible life's work. It denies that there is a "mysterious mental entity called 'aptitude for engineering' for which you need to search within yourself," and, therefore, there is no test that will tell in 15 or 20 minutes whether a person possesses "aptitude for engineering."
That a "college course nowadays is almost a prime essential" is the opinion of the editors, although the writer of one chapter says that "while a technical education is a great advantage . . . it is by no means an absolute necessity."
A student's past record seems to be a good indication of his suitability, for "generally speaking, the pupils who make consistently high grades in school are high in intelligence," and "an engineer should stand high in this respect." "Accordingly, one who does not stand in the upper half of his class (in preparatory school) would not have a very good chance of succeeding in a college of engineering." "A young man is advised not to try to become an engineer unless he has done good work in these particular subjects (mathematics, physics and chemistry) during his preparatory school course."
The general characteristics of health, integrity of the highest order, patience, determination, fairness, ingenuity and ability to work hard, along with the necessity for constant study are stressed.
As to compensation, "engineering offers little opportunity for the accumulation of great fortunes." If it is "considered from the side of material reward alone, or for ease and luxurious conditions, it offers small inducement for a life's work. The pride of worthy achievement, the joy of creation, and the satisfaction of victory over dangers and difficulties are the best, most certain, and most enduring rewards."
Many of the chapters dealing with specialized branches of engineering contain facts and opinions applying to the profession as a whole.
The prospective student of engineering is given this advice: "Consult with persons who are qualified, to give advice regarding vocational matters. Talk with men who have succeeded in the profession of engineering. Read the biographies of engineers."

This year is the 80th anniversary of The Hatchet.
The first University paper was published under the name of "The Columbian" and the first issue appeared on October 10, 1903. The following year the name of the publication was changed on October 5, 1904, to its present name, "The Hatchet."
A picture of a cherry tree felled by a hatchet served as the title banner of the first issues of The Hatchet.
The first editorial dealt with the admission of women to the professional schools of the University. It will be remembered that at that time degrees in the professional schools were not open to women.

One or the other is always at your service until 3 a. m. with "best things to eat."

THE freshman pledge from "way out West" was in his glory—and so was Peter Borrass. For all the freshman had spoken was said spontaneously and sincerely. He added, "I'd be happy if I could come up here every evening!"
Borrass responded, "Then you are like I am: I've been here 13 years and still I can't spend enough time here. I love it, too!"
Which is, we believe, the reason why dinner at the Madrilion with food by Chinto, tunes, rhythms and floor show under the baton of Brusiloff, and hospitality by Borrass cannot be duplicated elsewhere. For a change from movies and bites to eat afterwards, make a date for dinner at 6 at the Madrilion . . . figure it out, it costs no more at a dollar per for everything. Washington Building.

GROWING in popularity after the place to go for late supper—that's the latest report on The Wood Shed. We're all glad to hear that, because it's the only place that really tries to—and does—have a college atmosphere. Try it yourself with your date after the next affair. Costs are pleasingly low.

ONE fraternity has a reputation for always having a perfect floor for house dances. Here's how they do it: They get fresh wax and an electric waxer from CRAVEN'S . . . the pledges do the rest. Mr. Craven can give you the low-down on method. The waxer costs only $1 a day. Remember the address, 1919 Penna. Ave., or phone Na. 8861. Open until 7 p. m.

JOHNNY FENLON, who will be remembered as the star of G. W.'s 1932 football year, has started a business. . . with Mr. French. Johnny has a full new stock of ping pong, tennis, basketball and other sporting equipment at the Colonial Sport Shop, 2008 Eye St., just around the corner from 20th and the Avenue. Students and friends are urged to drop in and make themselves acquainted.

SEARCHING for a really good joke, the staff saw this in the Cornell Widow:
An Indian up in the northern part of Michigan returned for the third time to buy a half dozen bottles of cough syrup.
Druggist: "Someone sick at your house?"
Indian: "No sick."
Druggist: "Then what on earth is all this cough syrup for?"
Indian: "M-m-me like um on pancakes."

IF YOU are supposed to write home every week and don't let us send the news for you. It works swell. The folks will be pleased to death if you'll drop over to the Publications Office, 2016 H St., and arrange for a subscription. It costs only one dollar for all of next semester.

WHEN the orchestra plays stirring melodies you'll want to be at your very best on the dance floor. Now's the time to learn to dance the latest steps. Acquire confidence . . . poise . . . it will insure your popularity. Call NA. 3980 and make your appointment with THE CLARA MILLER SCHOOL OF DANCING today; and here's a tip, there's a special rate to University students, so mention The Hatchet. It pays.

THERE'S hardly anything better to brighten the new year with than a cheerful new study lamp. Mrs. Rothrock is displaying a group of them so new and shiny and attractive that if you'll remember to pass her Gift Shop just below the Powhatan on the Avenue, you'll be drawn into the store to pick one for your own or your best friend's desk . . . where it will be sure to beckon for more pleasurable writing, reading and study. All of them are handsome and from $1 to $6. We beg you not to miss seeing them before they are sold.

The Center Leaves have the finest Tobacco Quality

that's why only center leaves are used in Luckies

The first thing people see and like about Luckies is how round and firm they are. The tobacco doesn't spill out and there are no loose ends to cling to lips. That's because we pack each and every Lucky full to the brim with long, even strands of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos—only the center leaves. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed.

Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because they are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. That's why Luckies always draw easily, burn evenly—and are always mild and smooth. So smoke a Lucky, a fully packed cigarette. And remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

Medical Investigator Subject of Albritton Address on Thursday

WMAL to Broadcast Speech by Executive Officer of Physiology Department

What is the medical investigator really like? This is one of the questions which Dr. Errett C. Albritton, executive officer of the Department of Physiology of the Medical School will answer in his radio broadcast over station WMAL at 8:30 next Thursday, comparing the real investigator with the man the public imagines him to be, after reading the advertisements in magazines and newspapers.

Dr. Albritton will describe the type of person who chooses as his profession medical investigation, and the exact status of accuracy to which he is held by the code of investigation. Following an explanation of what is meant by controlled experiment, he will conclude with a brief picture of the history of medical investigation during the last thousand years, referring to some of the advances in medical knowledge due to laboratory investigation.

"Americans might be spared the simplifying and semi-literate pronunciation which altogether too many announcers now inflict on them," said Harold F. Harding, of the Department of Public Speaking, in his broadcast over the same program last Thursday.

He suggested the formation of an advisory committee on English, composed of Sir William Craigie, editor of an American dictionary, now in the making at the University of Chicago, and a group of distinguished speakers and scholars. This suggestion is based on an observation made by Professor Harding while in England, of the activities of the advisory committee on spoken English of the British broadcasting system. After interpolating records of Professor Lloyd James, eminent British phonetician, the speaker pointed out the differences in British and American speech. In conclusion, speaking of the possibility of harmony between the United States and Great Britain on the subject of diction, Professor Harding declared that there was little hope of such an agreement since "the most delicate and critical subject in the world is the right way to pronounce it."

FOOD DRIVE BRINGS CHEER TO FIFTY-TWO INDIGENT FAMILIES

of food stacked high in all corners. The collegiate reporter-columnists became temporary grocery clerks and delivery boys as came in and the phone rang to announce the arrival of additional packages.

Contributions came from all quarters, from the president's office to University mail-man. Actual delivery of baskets was negotiated through the use of private cars and, in one instance, a truck.

Great Need Revealed
The great need for relief was strongly emphasized with the receipt of many letters and phone calls from destitute families asking that they be considered when the baskets were delivered. Unfortunately, many of these were left unanswered because of lack of further supplies.

The student body and faculty came through nobly," said Editor John Madison, "and on behalf of The Hatchet, I wish to express appreciation to every contributor to the food drive. It is too bad we began work so late. However, next year we can do much better, since we will have more time in which to prepare the campus groups before the Christmas period arrives."

One statistically-minded gentleman calculated that 100 loaves of bread, 200 pounds of meat, 30 dozen eggs, 150 cans of milk, and a host of other articles were delivered to the needy groups.

Speaking of next year's drive, one enthusiastic committee member predicted that the student body, with ample preparation, will probably fill some 200 or more baskets for the 1934 Yuletide dinners.

Holidays See Change In Library Fixtures

By a rearrangement of the fixtures of the University Library during the Christmas holidays, the appearance of the two reading rooms has been greatly improved and the library will be able to give more adequate service.

The main changes are: The card catalogue and the periodical rack are now in the front of the first floor reading room by the reserve section, and space has been gained by moving the first row of readers' desks to the center of the room. The large charging desk formerly in the center of the room has been placed in the front of the second floor reading room. The last two rows of readers' desks in the rear of the room have been turned, making all the rows uniform. A shelf has been built in the center of the room for the dictionaries and a small table put near the card catalogue for the convenience of the users of the catalogue.

With the new arrangement of the furniture and the very necessary cooperation of the students, Mr. Mason, the librarian, hopes that the service at the reserve desk will be more effective during the period before examinations, the busiest time of the year in the library.

Varsity Faces Tough Foes in St. Johns, Long Island Games

Colonials Hope to Make Amends in Second Invasion of New York

The Colonial varsity basketball team made their second invasion of New York this week when they tackle St. Johns of Brooklyn and Long Island on Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

With the defeat at the hands of City College of New York fresh in his mind, Coach Ted O'Leary is returning to the metropolis determined to show the New Yorkers that his charges can really play basketball.

St. John's of Brooklyn has perennially had one of the outstanding basketball teams of the East. In the New York section it rates a close second to City College of New York. St. John's placed second to City College of New York in the tournament in Madison Square Garden on New Year's Day, 1933—the same tournament in which the Colonials dropped a hard game to City College of New York.

Meet St. John's of Brooklyn
Last year the Colonials met St. John's here in the most exciting game of the season, an extra period being required before the contest was finally won by a one-point margin by the visitors.

This will be the first meeting of the Colonials and Long Island. Little is known of the Long Islanders except that they have a strong team—one that can hold its own in the fast New York circuit.

The following men are scheduled to make the trip:

Coach: O'Leary, Manager: Hitch, Noonan, Shirley, Kane, Smith, Howell, Griffith, Parrish, Ruley, and Ellis.

Daisy Chain Strangles Rosebuds in Opening League Struggle

If you happen to overhear a couple of six-footers comparing notes on daisies and rosebuds, don't be alarmed. They aren't warming up for a botany lab. They are merely speaking of Coach Logan's basketball league. Ye scribe interrogated several members of each species, but was unable to get any details.

It seems as though it is Coach Logan's job to keep some of the gridders in shape, and he does it by means of a heavyweight basketball series. Last Saturday afternoon the two teams met in their first series, and Gil Conn, Johnny Baker, Boyd Hickman, Frank Lee and Wayne Davenport, composing the Daisy Chain, snatched a victory from Ben Plotnicki, Don Bomba, Ed Clark, Frank Cavalier and Rhodes, the Rosebud Regulars.

If the daisies are real good children, and eat all of their potatoes they will be permitted to meet the "Brain Trust" in the season's climax. The "Brain Trust" is composed of scouts and coaches and is reputed to be the pride of the athletic department.

Frosh Beat Wilson, Lose to Eastern Over Xmas Holidays

The frosh basketball aggregation amassed a 50 per cent average over the holidays, beating Wilson Normal 49-39 on December 19 and being nosed out by a point by Eastern on January 5, 34-33.

Their loss to Eastern's strong team (favored to win the city scholastic title) was the first the frosh have suffered this season. The game was extremely close, three points being the largest margin that ever separated the two teams. In the last minute of play McGibbony sank a shot that put Logan's men one point ahead, 33-32. With only seconds to play Eastern got the tip-off and Harry Basin tossed the ball in the general direction of the basket. With the ball still in the air the whistle blew ending the game, but the ball swished through the hoop giving the Easterners the game by an eyelash.

The game with the Teachers was only a workout for the Colonials and strings of substitutes saw action in the second half. Cecil McGibbony led the scoring with a total of 11 points.

SPORT AXE

By ROBERT HERZOG

And The Hatchet "scoops" the football schedule! Oklahoma returns as our Thanksgiving opponent. Tulsa returns for the fifth consecutive time. November 17, still open. Tennessee in '35 and '36. Furman and Wake Forest newcomers to list along with highlights LSU and Vanderbilt. Denver black horse on schedule.

We asked before, "Why play Tulsa?" and we think we had a good argument. We believe competition should be selected that will develop our standing.

You may recognize a couple of these teams if we remind you that LSU beat Tennessee and Furman beat Clemson.

The basketballers have regained their feet, and Wake Forest was the innocent victim of the O'Leary re-awakening. Returning from their Northern skirmish with defeats from Temple and CCNY still itching in their scalp, and burning with irritating criticism of sports writers and sideline experts the boys (minus Stein) took Wake Forest in stride. However, we still feel that the team isn't up to "snuff."

We shouldn't criticize losers, for losing is just part of the game. Criticizing winners seems inconsistent. Here's my criticism: Jimmy Howell, playing a little out of form, takes too many shots at the basket. The team hasn't a really fine offensive system, and even when opposing weak teams it appears crude and ill-trained.

Let's defend the basketball's right to live. More whole-hearted support of the cheering section, a larger share of the athletic department's attention, and a basketball team reverberant of the calm steadiness and fighting spirit of Otis Zahn and Ike Chambers will turn the tables.

The Alexandria Gazette reports that Archie Scrivener, sensational local pitcher, has been offered a job with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Scrivener turned down the offer intimating that he would not entertain such a thought until he had completed his collegiate career at G. W. He will be a candidate for the Colonial nine in the spring.

An Eastern college president denounced night football as unnatural. The coach's answer to that is, "It's better to be unnatural and pay the bills than to go broke according to nature's plans."

At Marquette athletes were barred from reading newspapers two weeks before important games.

Jack West, head coach at the University of North Dakota, lost 15 pounds while his football team was in training.

And we thank Edward J. Darmody, columnist in the St. Thomas' Aquin, for the above items.

Colonial Basketball Quint Defeats Wake Forest Impressively by Score of 33 to 25

George Washington Basketeers Recover From Two-Game Slump and Conquer Carolinians With Excellent Performance; Stein Out of Play Because of Injury

Returning to their early season form, the Colonial basketball team defeated Wake Forest, 33-25, in impressive style, at Wake Forest, N. C., last Friday night.

After running their winning streak to four straight by beating Furman and Geneva, the Colonial basketeers slumped badly after the holidays and took a bad 51 to 25 beating from City College of New York, in Manhattan, and another 49 to 22 from Temple, in Philadelphia.

Before finally subduing Geneva 44 to 34 on December 22, the Colonials had a slight scare. After being outplayed the first period and trailing 16 to 24 at half-time, the New Yorkers put on a spurt and drew up to within one point of Howell and Co. But led by Noonan and Stein, the Colonials put on steam and were pulling away as the game ended.

Furman Easy
Furman came to town on December 28 and then went home again without putting up much resistance in absorbing a 52 to 16 defeat. A new attack which put Howell under the basket taking shots from all angles and then dropping them through, enabled the flashy forward to score 23 points, nine of which were fouls. But the victory was a costly one, as Stein received a badly sprained ankle which put him out of the next three games.

Against City College on December

30 the Colonials looked to be outclassed. The New Yorkers were too fast to be seen, much less guarded, and without Stein the local quint soon became disorganized. O'Leary's men started off like they meant business, securing a 6 to 1 lead in the first few minutes, but then C. C. N. Y. took charge of the game and scored 31 straight points without a score from their opponents. Capt. Jimmy Howell went out before the first half ended on fouls and this aided to the local's confusion. At the half the score was 31 to 6, and during the second period each side scored the same, 19 points, but this was no help to the Colonials.

Fall Before Temple

On January 3, O'Leary's hopes trekked to Philly, but there took a 49 to 22 beating at the hands of Temple. The Colonials again started well and outplayed their opponents for the first 10 minutes, but then the Temple defense tightened and after that the team could do nothing but toss long shots, most of which missed, while the Philadelphians went to work and put the game on ice.

Against Wake Forest on the 5th, the Colonials resumed their winning ways. They showed a good passing attack which was led by Howell. At half-time the count was 14 to 9, but the South-erners soon tied it at 17-all. But here Howell contributed some of his total of 12 points for the evening and the Colonials drew away.

Alumni Riflers Take Match From Varsity

Old Stars Return to Defeat Former Mates; Strict NRA Rules Followed

Five Colonial alumni riflers, in an early Christmas season match, handed defeat to the crack Buff and Blue rifle team in its first shooting engagement for the year. Coach Frank Parsons, who coached the varsity team, composed of Dudley and John Brightenburgh, Julian Brylawski, and Hugh Riley, that outshot this year's varsity 1327 to 1314.

Strict N. R. A. rules were adhered to for the first time in the history of the annual contest between the two teams. Previously, the two teams shot ten men each and selected the highest five scores as their contestants. But in this encounter only five men on each team were allowed to shoot, and their scores were final in determining the winner.

Those shooting for the Buff and Blue varsity were: Captain Frank Marano, Manager James Cross, Jr., Richard Free, Oscar Neal, and Walter Schmidt. The foregoing men will also represent G. W. in the National Intercollegiate Individual Prone match to be held during the week ending January 20.

The highest of the current schedule is the match with the Naval Academy at Annapolis March 17.

Mountain Conference during the past season.

Furman, the second game on the schedule and the first home game, will be played at night, on October 12. Furman had a strong team in 1933, defeating Clemson 7-0, after the Colonials had eked out a 0-0 tie. Wake Forest, from the same district, will be played on October 16, the week after the Tulsa game, in the last of the night affairs. Beginning on November 6 with Vanderbilt, all the games will be played during the daytime.

North Dakota appears on the Colonial list for the third time on November 24. In previous encounters Pile's men have tied the Nordaks 6-6 in 1931 and won 27 to 6 in 1933.

The Athletic Department refused to confirm reports that Tennessee had been signed for 1935.

Varsity Swimmers Engage Delaware In Opening Match

Capt. Max Rote and Dyer Ghormley to Bear Brunt of Colonials' Work

Varsity swimmers will engage in their first inter-collegiate competition of the season Saturday afternoon when the strong Delaware team is met at the Ambassador Pool.

This match promises to be a hard fought one, as it is the first important contest for each team. In former years Delaware has been able to hold its own with the best teams in the East and reports indicate that this year's team is no exception.

Last year the Colonials dropped a breath-taking 34-32, contest to Delaware and Coach Lyman is making every effort to have his charges in shape to atone for that defeat.

Students who desire to witness this and other George Washington swimming meets will be admitted on their activity books.

Jan. 26—University of Virginia, here.
Jan. 29—V. M. I., here.
Feb. 17—Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore.

Feb. 24—Duke University, here.
Feb. 28—Lafayette College, here.
Meets with Lehigh and Swarthmore pending.

All home meets at the Ambassador Hotel pool.

"B" Squad Swimmers To Engage Western

The Colonial "B" Squad swimmers will engage Western High at the Ambassador Pool tomorrow night. This will be the second meeting of these teams this season, the Westerners having handed the yearlings a defeat earlier in the season.

Coach Lyman expects to face the Westerners with a greatly improved team this year. The Colonials center their hopes on Ben Catching and Steve Porter, two crawlstroke specialists who have shown in greatly improved style in recent trials. Graves, Colonial favorite, has been working hard and expects to top the best the Westerners have to offer.
